Scope of Services

The St. Louis region continues to be rated a marginal non-attainment area for purposes of clean air standards by the Environmental Protection Agency. One of the leading causes of this air pollution problem is single-occupancy vehicle commuting in the St. Louis region. Public transit is an effective way to reduce air pollution. According to St. Louis Trends, a Statistical Snapshot of the St. Louis Region, more than 76 percent of the workforce is driving alone to work. Currently MetroBus weekday ridership is at 94,644 and MetroLink weekday ridership at 47,833. Redirecting a portion of this population toward the use of public transit would improve the area's air quality. In addition, increasing public transit ridership provides opportunities to redevelop underutilized parts of the region, provides environmentally friendly alternatives to vehicular traffic, and helps create and sustain livable communities.

CMT is undertaking a one-year education campaign, which will build on the very successful campaign theme of, "Transit – some of ride it, all of us need it." from the Spring 2010. Transit incentives will be offered to move more drivers into the transit-user population.

This program will include employer outreach, information on relocating near transit, a community wide campaign and station specific planning events. CMT is seeking a Public Relations consultant for a one year period which will be responsible for planning, executing and promoting these events and messaging items in partnership with the Citizens for Modern Transit staff.

Research has shown that it takes a significantly longer period of time to get someone to try transit and use it than to lose a customer. The goal of this program will be to gain riders in areas that now have good service. New communication channels such as interactive website, Facebook, and Twitter will be used to reiterate the messaging and provide easy access to transit information.

The program would include Social marketing; email outreach; promotional events; transit advertising website promotions, and outreach will all be used to connect with City and County residents. The goal would be to reach the target market at least three to six times over the one year period – moving them into action.

Work products will include press releases, website updates, execution of events, and outreach programs on the following topics related to transit:

- Employer Based Transportation Programs
- Relocation near Transit Programs
- Community Wide Education Campaigns & Station specific events
- Social Media Challenges

Consultant will also be responsible for tracking all media hits/clippings and will provide a quarterly and annual media reports including earned media amounts, reach, and frequency.
